REMOVAL ROOM: STAFF GUIDELINES

At Royal Wootton Bassett Academy the aim is to create an environment where students' rights to learn are supported and where colleagues are supported to enable this. That means that students exhibiting low level disruption are given opportunities in class to rectify their behaviours so that they too can learn. If, however behaviours are not rectified, the Removal Room will be used.

C3 – Removal Room

- Will be supervised by a rota of Senior and Middle Leaders.
- If a student's behaviour is unacceptable in the 'Removal Room', the member of staff supervising will inform the student's Student Manager, Head of Year or member of LT. The student will subsequently be issued an emergency C7 - IER Placement or be placed in isolation with a member of the LT.

If a student does not improve their behaviour following a C2 consequence, the class teacher should:

1. Input on ECHO, thus alerting the Removal Room and recording a SIMS behaviour management log.
 2. Try to avoid sending more than one pupil from a lesson.
 3. Add any further details to the SIMS behaviour management log. – as soon as possible and certainly no later than 3.15pm each day. Ensuring you complete the 'Action Taken' field with C3 Removal Room
- Whilst in the Removal Room, the student will be expected to complete work or silent reading.
 - Staff supervising must complete an After School Detention Slip and give it to the student, reminding them of their After School Detention that day.
 - If a student fails to go to the Removal Room, Admin Support and the Student Manager must be informed who will liaise with the Head of Year and LT as appropriate – the student will be issued with a C7 IER or a C8 Fixed Term Exclusion for failure to follow instructions at the earliest opportunity.

If a student is sent to the Removal Room for the third time in a day, the student will be issued with a C7 IER placement for the remainder of the day by the member of staff supervising and then will subsequently be issued with an additional C7 IER with detention until 4.00pm the next day.

ROYAL WOOTTON BASSETT ACADEMY

Encouraging Positive Behaviour for Learning before needing to use the Consequence System - techniques to try.....

Teacher techniques	Details
Choice	Giving students some control over a situation may be less likely to initiate point-blank refusal; examples include: "I want you to focus on your work or (consequence), it's your choice." "Are you choosing not to follow our expectations on _____?" Or "Sit over here or next to Connor please" (implicit choice)
UNCRC	We are a Respecting Rights Academy. Remind students that they are depriving themselves and others of an effective education if they disrupt others or take up too much of your time so that you cannot teach the rest of the class. Examples include: "Do remember Chris that if you are choosing to disrupt this lesson, you are impacting on others' right to an education, including your own. Therefore, I will use the sanctions available that could impact on your other rights."
Take up time	Allow students not to lose face; watching and waiting is, in a way, issuing a challenge. We need to be clear and confident about expressing expectations. Follow an instruction with a pause to allow students time to comply. Examples include: "Could you open your book and start work now Sarah. I'm going to see Josh who needs some help but I'll come back in a minute if you need any."
Partial agreement	Deflects confrontation with students by acknowledging concerns, feelings and actions. Examples include: "Yes, you may have been talking about your work but I would like you to..." "Yes, it may not seem fair but..."
When-then direction	Avoids the negative by expressing the situation positively. Examples include: It is better to say, "When you have finished your work, then you can..." as opposed to "No, you cannot go out because you have not finished your work"
Privately understood signals	Draws the class together and builds in sharing times. Examples include: Clapping your hands gently twice, or counting down from 3,2,1. An individual student may recognise a gesture from the teacher as a reminder to concentrate on work.
Tactical ignoring /Positive discipline	May be appropriate for attention seeking behaviour. Ignore the 'target' student but praise the nearby student. Examples include: The teacher may say to a nearby student: "Well done you have remembered to put your hand up to answer a question" or "Well done you have your books and equipment out and look ready to start"

Redirect behaviour	Reminds the students what they should be doing and avoids getting involved in discussion about what the students are doing wrong. It may be possible to focus their attention on the required task. Examples include: "OK John and Louise. We're looking at the extract from on page 23 of your books"
Consequences and Expectations	Needs to be in line with the Academy's Behaviour for Learning Policy and be implemented clearly and consistently. Examples include: "Remember the school expectations, Chloe. It's there on the poster to remind us all"
Deferred consequences	Deals later with a student who is misbehaving and therefore removes the 'audience', that is the rest of the class who are watching the drama unfold, and also avoids a possible confrontation. Dealing with a student in a one-to-one situation is more likely to have a positive outcome. Examples include: "I'd like to sort this out, Amy, but we can't do it now. I will talk with you at 10.30"
Catch them being good	Crucial for relationship building. Look for the positives no matter how small they might seem. If you can build them up then gradually the attitudes to learning will change.
Use of vocal and body language skills to redirect	For example: Facial expressions, eye contact, positioning, patrolling, proximity, level, silence, relaxed positions, rapport building, vocal tone, pitch and pace. People communicate: 55% through their body language, 38% through the tone of their voice, and 7% by the words that they use.
When dealing with pupils using 'and' and 'we' rather than 'you' and 'but'	Asserts a far more positive slant on the learning process. Focuses on the students' behaviour as opposed to sounding like a personal 'dig'
Use of questions to divert	Throw them off track. Quick fire questions also work well as they don't have time to misbehave.
Modelling	Display the behaviours that you expect them to.
Keep up the pace of lessons	Chunk work down so that they do not get 'stuck' on one task for too long. Attention spans won't last! Also do not be afraid to stop or abort something if it's clearly not working.
Try using humour	Only use your own humour that you feel confident with – don't try to imitate others' style.
Surprise tactics	What are they least expecting you to do?
Be prepared...	A well planned/structured lesson will always assist in promoting positive attitudes to learning. A variety of teaching styles, differentiated work and the teacher to be there to greet them at the door goes a long way. As does a smile 😊
Mobile phones	If you see a mobile phone out when it should be away, confiscate it but remind the student when they should expect their phone back (i.e. at the end of the day). Remind them if they respond negatively that they are escalating the sanction but be mindful that confiscating a phone can cause them further turmoil and so support them to de-escalate.
